DETAILED ACTION

This Application has been examined. The original claims 1-19 are pending. The examination results are as follows.

Priority

1. Applicants are required to amend the first sentence of the specification to cross reference to other related applications, identifying them by application numbers, which are now missing.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The examiner has considered the documents listed in forms PTO-1449 submitted with the Information Disclosure Statements (IDSs) received 5/6/04 and 3/2/04 (see the attached forms PTO-1449).

Drawings

3. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a) because they fail to show: "the pen cursor 208" and "an input transducer 360" as described in paragraphs 54 and 56 in pages 9 and 10, respectively, of the specification. Any structural detail that is essential for a proper understanding of the disclosed invention should be shown in the drawing. MPEP § 608.02(d). Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

4. Claim 15 is objected to because of the following informalities: the claimed phrase: "associated with the input cursor as computer mouse events" is duplicated in the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sciammarella et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,097,387, hereinafter referred to as "Sciammarella").

Sciammarella, Fig. 4, teaches a graphical user interface, comprising: a dragable graphic (322) (a so-called toolbar on a display screen 318) dragable by an input cursor (316) and that is used to interpret events associated with the input cursor as computer mouse events (the user operates a mouse (202) to move the cursor (316) for dragging the toolbar (322) on a display screen (318); see also, Fig. 4, col. 3, lines 37-51.

7. Claims 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Berman et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,760,773, hereinafter referred to as “Berman”).

8. Regarding claim 13, Berman, Fig. 1, teaches a graphical user interface, comprising: a pen cursor tracking graphic (“action handle 40), which is dragged and/or tapped with a pen or stylus 12, for providing mouse pointing and mouse button emulation; see also, Figs. 2-5, col. 14, lines 28-32, and col. 17, lines 18-30.

9. Regarding claim 14, Berman further teaches that the graphic provides an appearance of button controls; see col. 14, lines 35-38, and col. 28, lines 38-42.

10. Regarding claim 15, Berman, Fig. 5, teaches a graphical user interface, comprising: a dragable graphic (“action handle 40”) dragable by an input cursor, e.g., a drag icon 40’, and that is used to interpret events associated with the input cursor as computer mouse events; see col. 15, line 57 to col. 16, line 13.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 16-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over “Berman”.

13. Regarding claim 16, Berman teaches a graphical user interface method, comprising: producing a graphical user interface (“action handle 40”) on a display (18); moving the graphic on the display as a tracking menu responsive to movement of a pen (12); and interpreting input events initiated by the pen as mouse events, see Figs. 1 and 5. Although Berman does not teach expressly that the graphic user interface action handle (40) has an appearance of a computer mouse; However, Berman teaches that: (i) each action handle has a different graphic symbol or icon indicate the nature of the associated item; see col. 14, lines 36-39; and (ii) action handle (40) used the mouse buttons instead of pop up or context menu; see Fig. 7A, col. 18, lines 4-7, col. 27, lines 24-38, and col. 28, lines 38-42.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize the graphic symbol of a mouse for associating the mouse actions for the Berman action handle graphic because this would provide an improved graphical user interface that is user friendly for enhancing the functional operations of the interface. By this rationale, claim 16 is rejected.

14. Regarding claim 17, which is an apparatus claim corresponding to the method claim 16, and is therefore rejected on the same basis set forth for claim 16 discussed above.

15. Regarding claims 18 and 19, which claim a computer readable storage controlling a computer for performing the method steps of claim 16. Berman teaches a computer program stored in a memory (21) executed by a computer (20) for performing the method steps of claim 16; see Figs. 1 and 14. Claims 18 and 19 are therefore rejected on the same basis set forth for claims 16.

Allowable Subject Matter

16. Claims 1-12 are allowed.

Conclusion

17. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. They are U.S. Patents Nos.: 6,262,719 and 5,666,499, which teach graphical user interfaces that utilize mouse and/ or pen operations.
